

EXPERIENCE

Brad Hart is an Associate at Weil & Drage, APC. He has a broad range of experience including representing general contractors, developers, and subcontractors in both transactional matters and complex civil litigation. Additionally, Brad is a California "B" licensed general contractor with over a decade of construction experience. His background includes managing ground up design/build residential, and multi-million dollar commercial tenant improvement projects. This hands-on experience provides clients a unique perspective with regard to highly technical claims and construction industry standards, practices, and procedures. Brad's practice also includes general business litigation and environmental hazards, including extensive experience with regard to the assessment and remediation of toxic mold in a variety of project types.

Brad is licensed and practices in all courts in the State of California.
